Gentrification and displacement are regional problems that require regional solutions. The Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) is a regional agency in charge of billions of dollars, yet has not taken any concrete steps to address the Bay Area's housing crisis.

Tell these powerful decision makers that this money should be tied to local policies that protect working class tenants and build more affordable housing.

Too often, communities of color are left out of planning decisions. Join us on February 20th to demand real actions now:

- ✓ Hold people in power accountable and offer community-based solutions.
- ✓ Share your stories of struggle.
- ✓ Show our collective regional power as part of the 6 Wins for Social Equity Network.

Grassroots organizations from around the Bay Area have worked hard to ensure community voices are included in the forum. Contact any of them for more information and to participate in a training near you:
